Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

– Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Should I choose a brokerage service? Should I choose both types of services? Why or why not? How will you choose investments to recommend to me?

– What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

Item 3 Fees, Costs, Conflicts and Standard of Conflict

What fees will I pay?

If you open a brokerage account that is self-directed, you will pay us a transaction-based fee, generally referred to as a commission, every time you buy or sell an investment. With other investments, such as bonds, this fee might be part of the price you pay for the investment (called a "mark-up or "mark down"). With mutual funds, this fee (typically called a "load") reduces the value of your investment. If you open an advisory account, you will pay an on-going asset-based fee for our services. The fees are assessed at the beginning of each quarter and are disclosed in our Form ADV Part 2A and Fee Schedule found on our website. Some fees create a conflict of interest described below.

- Our firm charges advisor accounts asset-based fees at the beginning of each quarter, more assets in the account will cause you to pay more in fees and therefore we may have an incentive to encourage you to increase the amount of money invested in those accounts.
- Paying for wrap fee programs could cost more than separately paying for advice and for transactions if there are infrequent trades in your account
- Our firm charges self-directed brokerages accounts commissions, our representatives may offer products to you that cost more and therefore you will be charged more.

- If you invest in a wrap fee program, asset-based fees associated with the wrap fee program will include most transaction costs and fees to a broker-dealer or bank that has custody of these assets, and therefore, those fees are higher than a typical asset-based advisory fee.

There are other fees and costs related to our investment adviser and brokerage services in addition to the principal fees and costs that you will pay directly or indirectly. Examples of our most common fees and costs are maintenance fees, mutual fund fees and wrap program fees.

Additional Information:

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

For more detailed information about our fees and costs please review our Form ADV, Part 2A brochure (specifically Items 5.A., B., C., and D.) which can be found at www.bakerinvestments.net. For more detailed information about our broker-dealer fees and costs please review our Regulation BI disclosure and Fee Schedule found at www.bakerinvestments.net and www.brokercheck.finra.org.

Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

– Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations as my broker-dealer or when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we provide you with a recommendation as your broker-dealer or act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations and investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

- Our firm engages in principal trading which can lead to price manipulation or the sale of unwanted securities to you.
- If you invest in mutual funds or variable insurance products, our firm has an incentive to encourage you to invest in positions that may be costly, dependent on amount purchased and time horizon.

Conversation starters. Ask your financial professional:

– How might your conflicts of interest affect me, and how will you address them?

Additional information:
